Part II. Description of Curriculum Change

Description: The College of Health and Human Services requests the establishment of a new course prefix. The proposed prefix is HHS and will be used to represent courses owned collectively by all of the departments within the College of Health and Human Services. Examples of courses that may be proposed with a HHS prefix include variable topics, study tour, honors, and freshmen year courses. It is expected that courses proposed with a HHS prefix will be interdisciplinary in nature and may be taught by a faculty member or faculty team within the college.

Rationale: Faculty in the College of Health and Human Services have an interest in proposing courses for which a college-wide prefix would be appropriate. For example several faculty in the college have taught the special topics courses Issues in Aging and Issues in Women's Health. These team-taught courses are interdisciplinary in nature and have a broad appeal to students not only in the College of Health and Human Services but other university students as well. It is cumbersome to cross-list these courses with multiple departments (potentially 8 departments and 13 different prefixes). The use of a college-wide prefix more clearly communicates the orientation of such a course.

Jody,
I have reviewed the establishment of the HHS prefix with our faculty and the Culinary department all support the HHS prefix.

Thanks
