

NEW COURSE PROPOSAL

WORLDWIDE CULTURAL UNDERSTANDING

1.000 credit hours

Dr. [Name]

1.000 credit hours

1.000 credit hours

This course is designed to provide students with a comprehensive understanding of the world's diverse cultures, customs, and traditions. It will cover the major world religions, ethnic groups, and social structures, as well as the impact of globalization on cultural exchange and identity. The course will include a study of the historical and contemporary contexts of various cultures, as well as the role of culture in shaping national and international relations. Students will be encouraged to explore their own cultural heritage and to develop a respect and appreciation for the differences of others.

science, art, history, literature, language, business, political science, economics Current work in various

B2. Are additional or corollary courses needed?

No.

B3. What is the relationship of this course to the content of courses offered by other departments?

Since Philosophy is an autonomous discipline, it can be interdisciplinary, while avoiding conflict with other departmental offerings. The internship is designed for

D2. How many sections?

Dependent on need. But the sections would have to be limited to capability of faculty to serve LS and majors courses.

D3. How often will the course be offered?

Fall Spring summer session of at least 5 weeks

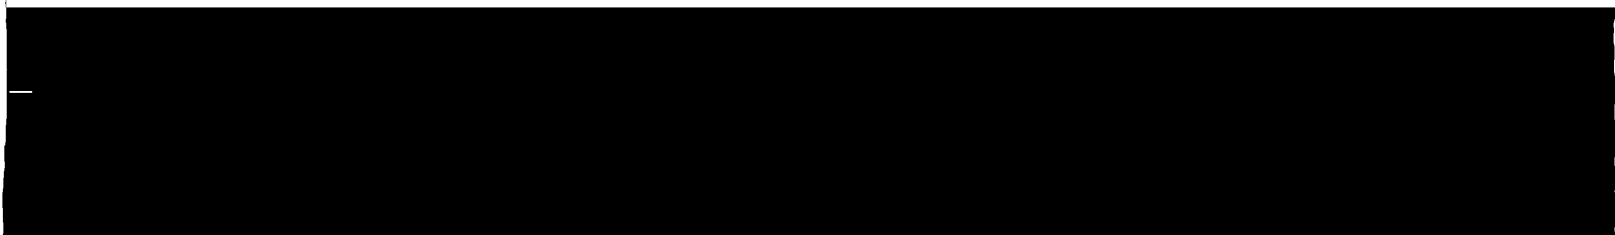

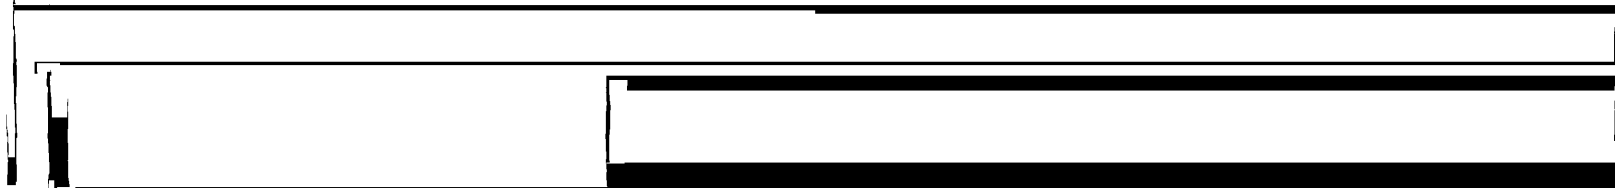

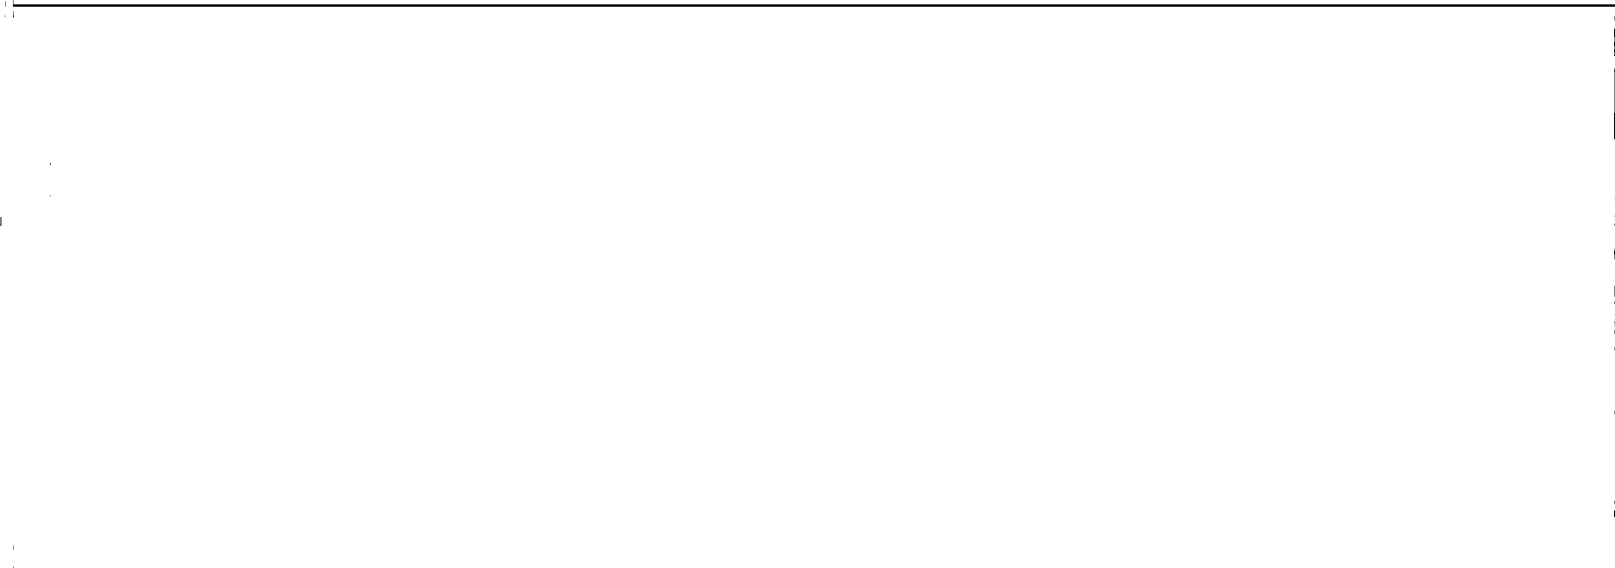

A1. CATALOG DESCRIPTION

PH 493: Internship in Philosophy 3-6 SH

Prerequisite: Permission of the Department, Junior or Senior
PH Major or Double Major, 2.5 QPA

A supervised experience of no longer than one semester and no less than 5 weeks. This would take place in either a public or private organization in areas that either extend and develop, or complement coursework in PH. Log and/or other papers required. Total credit writing, communication, and analytical

A2. COURSE SYLLABUS . . . PH 493: Internship in Philosophy

The course syllabus for PH 493 will be individually designed between each intern and the faculty intern supervisor.

The course syllabus will be designed in the context of the Catalogue Description for PH 493 and the Internship Guidelines from the Office of the Director of Professional Laboratory Experiences.

The design will be accomplished in consultation with the PH faculty and the supervisor at the cooperating agency.