

How Can I Create a Platform for Difficult Conversations in the Online Classroom?

Presented by:

Stephanie Delaney, - ' PhD

Dean, Academic Programs, South Seattle College

Stephanie Delaney oversees all of the transfer programs including the humanities, social sciences, math, science, and business at the college. In addition to her administrative work, Delaney teaches at the graduate and undergraduate level. She has more than 15 years of experience teaching in traditional and distance modalities. In addition to her PhD, she also holds a law degree from the University of San Diego School of Law.

Building Trust with Students from the Skillful Teacher: On Technique, Trust and Responsiveness in the Classroom by Stephen D. Brookfield. I use this excellent book with my graduate education students. Chapter 12 on Building Trust with Students is a quick yet valuable read.